And even Clovis gets into the Black Hand game. The town up the road is enterprising if nothing else.

The commission plan of government would be approved by the voters of Roswell, but we don't care for the first skin-game that comes along.

Albuquerque undoubtedly needs that new Democratic paper. It is a long time since the people over there have had the truth told them.

Roswell is not a long way behind Albuquerque now in size and amount of business done, but it will not be this way always. Roswell will be first.

The Weekly Record contains every week more than forty galleys of live reading matter, more than is published by any other weekly paper in the Territory.

There is no other town in the Territory of any size that has the opportunity for beautifying possessed by Roswell. Much has been done here but much still remains to be done.

The fact that E. H. Harriman receives daily reports from his agents in all sections penetrated by his roads, particularly with reference to the newspaper comments on his roads, shows the value he places on newspaper publicity.

The Dayton people believe they have the real thing in the way of an oil well and estimate that as a pumping proposition the well will give 200 barrels per day. The Record hopes they are correct and that they will at least get this amount and still more. It would be a great thing for the valley to get cheap fuel and would probably do much to encourage pumping propositions for irrigating.

Roswell grows constantly. There is no let up in the growth, although at times there may be a slackening in the rate of growth. The city is on a solid foundation. It is in the midst of the best irrigated section in the Southwest and has thousands of acres of land being brought into cultivation every year, and this will constantly be increased as the years go by and better and more improved methods of cultivation and care of water are adopted.

Col. A. K. McClure, who died in Philadelphia last Sunday, was one of the most noted newspaper men in the country, and for many years a pillar of strength to the Republican party, although afterwards he became disgusted with the subserviency of that party to the trusts and special interests and left it. During Lincoln's administrations, he was especially prominent and was a close personal friend of the Great Emancipator. Recently he wrote that he voted for Theodore Roosevelt and regretted that he did so. "He proved to be a curse," said Col. McClure.

The Philadelphia North American, a Republican newspaper, aptly remarks that if Taft vetoes the tariff bill in its present form that he will deserve well of those who believe in true downward revision, but that if he allows the bill to become a law in the condition it will be when passed up to him, then it matters little to the people what he does in the future. The fight over the tariff is a conflict between the people and the special or protected interests, and our public men will be considered according to the stand they take on this vital matter.

The county of Chaves has no trouble in selling bonds, buyers tumbling over themselves to get a chance to buy and offering very good terms. Better than this, the county is in financial shape to take care of the bonds when they are sold without inflicting any undue hardship on the tax payers.

KIPLING'S.

The county is governed, practically, by the commission form of government, and one would have to go a long way to find a better commission. The county commissioners are practically a board of directors and proceed as would such a board. This is the true commission plan, and it should be possible to manage the city in the same way at the same or even less cost.

STATUE OF GEN. S. D. LEE UNVFILED AT VICKSBURG.

Vicksburg, Tenn., June 12.—Many of the Confederate veterans from the annual reunion at Memphis arrived here yesterday to be present at the unveiling of a heroic statue of Gen. Stephen D. Lee. The principle address was made by Gen. Evans, who said, in part, as follows.

"Our thoughts and feelings today concentrate fitly on the patriotic life of Lieutenant General Lee, as we shall always associate him with the great events in which he acted his distinguished part," said Gen. Evans. "I will make his well known life the theme, his character an example, and his career the suggestion of the citizenship patriotic duty. What a noble man he was. Not merely a titular nobleman without the noble graces, but a monumental nobility, proven by his deeds, belonged to him without other escutcheon. This monument declares his fame and our country will accept it as a part of its own glory."

Gen. Evans spoke of "the four years brilliant military career of the great Confederate soldier," which he declared could be expanded into volumes by narrating the wonderful incidents of that vast war in which he achieved the fame the country delighted to honor. "At the close of his war life," said Gen. Evans, "in full vigor of his thirty-two years, there can be found no unfitness for public service in any trait or quality of character, or act of his bright career, which suggests a cause of any kind why the honors of this remarkable memorial should not crown him. Not a cloud lowered around his name. If it is becoming in man to be brave he had that excellency of manhood, for the best ideas of chivalry were exemplified by his courage, since he fought as a patriot without malice toward his enemy. x x His hand never withheld what was another's due. His tongue did not alter in praise when it was merited by a foe. His heart flowed with limpid charity for all, and his life was passed in faithful service of man and God. He will be remembered forever in the biography of Americans as a type of the true citizen; the courageous, skillful, generous leader in war; the ardent Confederate comrade, the true gentleman, the affectionate husband and father, and, above all, the consistent Christian man."

In concluding, Gen. Evans declared that the people of the North and the South should more perfectly know and more kindly consider one another "They should mingle without prejudice," he said, "without distrust, and for mutual benefit, not for partisan or sectional gain. Let East and West interchange courtesies and not complaints; let South and North cultivate fairly a more general fraternization by the exchange of admiration instead of recrimination. The evident quartet of sections, East, West, South and North can be made an advantage and not remain a hindrance; and the civic union by states of a homogenous kind citizenry will secure safely and forever the purest blood on earth; and show to all nations of this age the example of the best government in the world."

ORCHESTRA CONCERT.

Mrs. Frederick R. Jolly, a recent acquisition to Roswell's musical talent, will appear at the M. E. Church, South, June 14th, as soloist with the Symphony Society. Those who have heard Mrs. Jolly sing are full of praise for her beautiful voice and fine execution. It is indeed seldom that there is combined in one voice such sweetness and such breadth and power. Her voice is of a highly cultivated Dramatic Soprano and reminds one of Madam Gaskil of the Metropolitan Grand Opera. Mrs. Jolly has pleased audiences in many of our large cities and should be greeted by the full seating capacity of the M. E. Church. 822.

Hardwood Lumbermen.

Detroit, Mich., June 10.—Michigan manufacturers gave a royal welcome to the 500 influential visitors who arrived in Detroit today to begin the annual session of the National Hardwood Lumber Association.

GATEWOOD SELLS THE SMOKE HOUSE PROPERTY.

Through the agency of Hugh Lewis Judge W. W. Gatewood has sold the building occupied by the Smoke House to Mr. Rothenberg, of the firm of Rothenberg & Schloss, proprietors of the Smoke House and Wigwam in this city and various business houses in the West and Southwest. The consideration of the sale was $10,000, cash, and the trade was closed through S.

Uhlfelder, who acted as Mr. Rothenberg's agent in the matter. This sale shows that Roswell property is in good stiff demand and is bringing good prices. The transfers of real estate also show that there has been little falling off since the boom of last spring, and that the average of the past three or four years is being maintained nicely, the growth of the city being gradual but steady.

COMMENCEMENT DAY AT THE MILITARY ACADEMY.

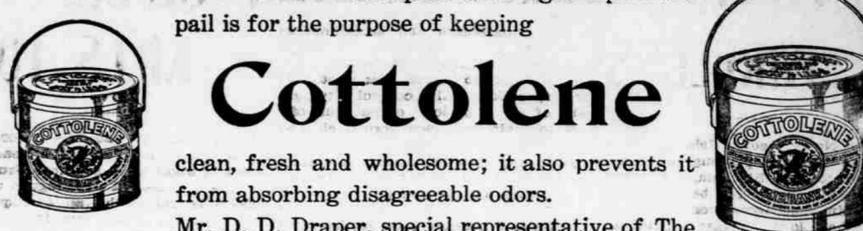

West Point, N. Y., June 11.—At the commencement exercises at the U. S. Military Academy, Secretary of War Dickinson presented the graduating diplomas, after first witnessing a review of the cadet corps. Dickinson, in presenting the diplomas, spoke in glowing terms of the achievements of the Academy. General Porter, who graduated in 1860, spoke of the army and navy. There are one hundred and three members in the graduating class.

Lardless Cookery

The only people who use lard for shortening and frying purposes are those who are not familiar with the virtues of COTTOLENE.

COTTOLENE was granted a grand prize [highest possible award] over all other cooking fats at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and food cooked with COTTOLENE another GRAND PRIZE.

A New Feature--The patent air-tight top on the pail is for the purpose of keeping

By R. F. BALLARD, Deputy.

Reverend Albert Dager of, Pena Blanca, N. M., left Thursday for Carlsbad, accompanied by Reverend Reiser of Carlsbad. Both of these priests have been here for a short visit with Father Herbert. Reverend Dager will visit at Carlsbad for a few days before returning to his home at Pena Blanca.

NOTICE.

A number of teachers have made application through me, for board during the coming institute, June 21st to July 3rd, in private homes.
If all who desire teachers to board during that time will notify me stating the number desired, whether ladies or gentlemen, the street and number and the price they will charge, per week, it would be of much assistance to me in getting teachers located.
